

CALL FOR PAPERS

INTERNATIONAL SCHOLARLY CONFERENCE

Reimagining and Rebuilding Palestine: Genocide, Trauma, and the Future of a Suffering Nation

Date: 30-31 January 2026

Venue: University of Cyprus (Nicosia, Cyprus)

Co-Organizers: Universitas Foundation and the University of Cyprus

CONFERENCE

30-31
JAN

1. Background and Rationale

For over seventy-five years, Palestinians have lived under the shadow of dispossession, exile, and occupation. The Nakba of 1948 set in motion a continuum of displacement, systematic human rights violations, and recurrent military assaults. The recent devastation in Gaza represents an unprecedented level of destruction, with widespread targeting of civilians, infrastructure, and cultural heritage.

The toll is not only physical but deeply psychological. Generations have inherited the trauma of forced exile, siege, and violence. Yet, despite the enormity of loss, Palestinians have sustained a vibrant identity through culture, art, education, and community resilience.

This conference seeks to bring together scholars, practitioners, and policy-makers to reflect on the historical trajectory of Palestinian suffering; to explore the psychological and social impact of genocide and protracted occupation; and to chart pathways for reconstruction, healing, and national renewal. It will also seek to evaluate the proposed (“Trump”) Peace Plan and to consider alternative scenarios for the future of Palestine.

2. Objectives

The conference aims to:

1. Document and analyse the ongoing genocide and its impact on Palestinian society.
2. Examine historical and intergenerational trauma within Palestinian communities.
3. Identify culturally grounded approaches to healing and resilience.
4. Explore governance, reconstruction, and development strategies for a future Palestinian state.
5. Consider the socio-political implications for reimagining the future of Palestine in connection with the imagined community of the nation, and the aim of setting up a Palestinian state.
6. Compare global post-conflict experiences to extract relevant lessons for Palestine.
7. Raise global awareness in support of a just and rights-based Palestinian future.

3. Structure

Duration: 2 days

Format: Scholarly presentations, thematic panels, roundtables, workshops, artistic interventions, and parallel youth forums.
